PERUVIAN SYRUP

From a Physician.

NORTH HYDE PARK, Vt., Feb, 1876.

MESSRS. SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston, Mass.:

Gentlemen—You may perhaps remember that I wrote you several weeks ago in regard to the use of the "Peruvian Syrup" for my wife, who was suffering from general debility, the sequence of Typhoid Dysentery. I had tried the most noted physicians in this state and also in Canada without relief. At your recommendation she commenced the use of the Syrup. The first four bottles made but little impression, but while taking the fifth, she began to improve rapidly, and now, after using six of the dollar bottles, she regained her strength, and is able to do most of the work about the house; and I feel that I cannot speak too highly in praise of PERUVIAN SYRUP. I have prescribed it to several of my patients and have procured the sale of several dozen of it here. You can make any use of this letter that you see fit,

Yours very truly, H. D. BELDEN, M. D.

From Rev. John Gregory,

Pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church at Pittston, Luzerne County, Pa.

My Dear Sir—Having at various times, personally, and in my own and other families, tested the great value of the medicine called PERUVIAN SYRUP, or PROTECTED SOLUTION OF PROTOXIDE OF IRON, I most cheerfully recommend it, especially to those who are suffering from dyspeptic and nervous disorders. As a reliable and powerful alterative, it is, I think, unsurpassed; and as a tonic, free from all the objectionable features of alcoholic remedies, it is a most efficient auxiliary to the temperance cause. One of the greatest hindrances to the temperance reform at present is, as I think, the medical use of alcoholic stimulants. Whatever may be argued as to their necessity in certain cases, we have in the PERUVIAN SYRUP, a safe and efficient substitute for those dangerous remedies. This testimony is given unsolicited, with the hope that some who are not yet acquainted with the valuable properties of the medicine may be induced to give it a trial.

Yours truly, JOHN GREGORY.

confidence will be restored and healthy business revived.

Fourth. When all uncertainties are removed and business conducted on strictly mercantile principles, there will be fewer chances for swindlers and bank and railroad wreckers. The country has for many years been in the condition of a burning and a burned city, infested with lurking thieves and plunderers.

Fifth. The demand for labor will be increased by resumption of course, Honest workers will find employment at fair wages. Foreign vagabonds and domestic tramps will no doubt be still left out in the cold—food for the courts and the prisons. Nothing can defeat these predictions but a demented Congress at Washington and Greenbackers and Communists at home. MOSES EMERY.

Sold Out.

Judging from what we hear and read, it would seem that the honest yeomanry of greenbackism are to be sold out after all. Among other items we clip the following from the Union and Journal: "There is however 'a dark horse' in Portland, who, rumor says, stands a first class show of getting the nomination. He is a recent convert from the Democratic party, which makes his chances all the better, for it has become quite evident that the Democracy will run the Greenback party in this district."

Mr. Clifford is supposed to be the man referred to, and there is a good deal of talk among the "money influence buying out" certain papers, getting a candidate who can afford to "shell out" liberally, and all that sort of stuff, which might be true of any other party, but not of the anti-corruption greenbackers. Nevertheless we venture to predict that the man with the dollars will win, the honest rank and file to the contrary notwithstanding.—Eastern Star.

The Custom House Removals.

NEW YORK, July 13.—This afternoon Col. Burt, newly appointed Naval Officer, and Gen. Merritt, newly appointed Collector of the port, called on Judge Choate of the United States District Court, and presented their bonds. The judge approved of the bonds and the clerk attached the seal of the court to them, and they were then sent to the Secretary of the Treasury for his approval, which is necessary before they can take office. The names of the bondsmen will not be disclosed until after the decision of the Secretary of the Treasury in regard to them.

The Mercury says the recent changes in the custom house means nothing but the beginning of a clean sweep of all Conklingites from Federal offices in this city, including custom house surveyors, naval officers and appraisers departments, postoffice, marshal's office, internal revenue office, district attorney's office, etc. It says the object is to fill all the places with Fentonites who are to work entirely for the election of Evarts to the U. S. Senate, and the programme will be carried out by Merritt. It is stated that Gen. Arthur and Mr. Cornell have several letters from Sherman demanding prominent offices for Ohio politicians.

A number of clerks heretofore called on have declined to contribute on the ground that they are not politicians.

THE INDIANS.

Fighting Going On in Oregon.

The Result of the Conflict not Known.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Gen. Sherman received the following despatch from Gen. McDowell to-day, dated San Francisco, July 12th:

The following has just been received from Howard at Wallula of this day:

The Indians after Monday's battle turned north and eastward along the Blue Ridge by Meacham's road, in the night. Sanford's three companies of cavalry and Miles' infantry are to follow. Egbert operates from Baker city guarding against their return by trail between him and the Pinte lakes. Forsyth's moves with six companies of cavalry northward toward Lewiston. I am on the way to Lapwi, Mount Idaho and vicinity with the infantry force, to head the enemy at Snake Crossing. Throckmorton is near Pendleton and will be strengthened by Mizner's companies to quiet the populace. Attempts by the Indians to cross the Columbia have ceased. HOWARD.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Agent Patten telegraphs from Shoshone and Bannock agency the 12th as follows:

"Two lodges of Cheyennes escaped from this agency yesterday, going in the direction of Fort Kearney. Notify the military at that point to look out for them. They are hostile."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—A Umatilla despatch says the Indians have burned Cayuz station. The troops are being disposed in hopes of cutting off the retreat of the hostiles and bringing them to bay.

Baker City, Oregon, despatch says the hostiles made their appearance at Clover creek, a tributary of North Powder river, and Capt. Vivian's company of Egbert's command, while scouting yesterday in that direction captured seven Indians, eight squaws and some children and twenty head of horses. After a vigorous pursuit thirty or more hostiles escaped.

Scouts from Meacham's report a large trail through the Blue Mountains, passing toward Snake river, made early yesterday morning. Egbert's command is ordered to the Pagetta country to watch for returning hostiles, who are evidently moving north towards Idaho and the Salmon river country as fast as possible.

Sanford's command is ordered to follow on the trail of the Indians.

All of the prisoners captured yesterday are now on their way to Fort Boice, under Egbert's escort.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—A Portland, Oregon, despatch says that the following startling news is just received here from Pendleton, dated 12th, from J. K. Keeney. The despatch is directed to Gov. Chadwick:

"Yours just received. Will try and get escort for the wagons in the morning. We have been having exciting times here today. The hostile Indians are in force on the reservation. Geo. Coggan of Portland and A. L. Bunker of Lagrand, were shot this afternoon about six miles from here on the telegraph road to Cayne. Cogran was killed. Bunker is supposed to be mortally wounded. Fred Foster, who was with them, got away by luck. Bunker went with him about two miles after he was shot and he was then compelled to leave him. Foster gave us the news and we started a team with 14 men as escort to go to Bunker. They got as far as Chief Wincunomata farm when they were attacked and compelled to return after exchanging a number of shots. The Indians, about 150 strong, (Umatillas) are undoubtedly fighting with them. Mayor Connoyer was with the party attacked. They think they killed one Indian. The Cayuse house was pillaged and burned. Our stage station was not burned. Capt. Miles could well reach the agency tonight. His soldiers are all very much exhausted and should they go into the agency thinking the Umatillas all right they may get the worst of it. Our families are at the mill and court house and the town is well guarded.

Col. Ellinger of this city has just received the following despatch from Gov. Chadwick:

Umatilla, July 13.—I have made a call for 300 volunteers. Take those of Capt. Sears. 100 of Portland are equipped by citizens. See that he has men not so much for number but for courage, activity and endurance. Short work, boys. I will get the balance here.

Capt. C. S. Sears of the Portland Volunteer Rangers has just received the following:

Umatilla, July 13—(8 a. m.)—Come at once as you propose. I have guns at Vancouver now; will get them. (Signed) S. F. CHADWICK.

Gov. Ferry yesterday dispatched Gov. Chadwick that he could have guns now from Vancouver, on his allowance, a large number of freight wagons are on the road, four miles above Cayuns Station, and the men and horses are gone. The road is dangerous, and the following letter has just been received at Umatilla by Gov. Chadwick, by a courier from Pendleton:

Troops under Capt. Miles are now fighting about two miles above the agency with the Indians. They have been fighting for the last two hours. The Indians are on the river near their general camping grounds. Almost all the Umitillas are supposed to be in the fight. A. L. Bunker has just got in, and Coggan is not found yet. Should the Indians get the best of Capt. Miles, we will all, undoubtedly, have to fight. There are over one hundred men here who have no arms of any kind.

PORTLAND, Ogr., July 14.—General Sprague, superintendent of the O. S. N. Company, has received the following despatch from Gov. Chadwick:

UMATILLA, July 13.

Could Portland do anything to relieve the distress of Pendleton. The actual necessaries of life are needed there by the families who are there. I have requested the officials to prevent suffering.

The following is a despatch from Walla Walla July 13, 8 p. m.:

A man who left Weston today says the troops are fighting between the mouth of the Lorde Willow and Cayns station, 12 miles from Weston on the Mexican road. The firing commenced between 3 and 9 o'clock this morning. They were still fighting when he left.

There are about 350 soldiers under arms. They expect Major Sanford at Cayus station tonight. Six companies that left Walla Walla for Lewiston have turned back and are now en route for Wallula. Many wagons have arrived in the city, containing families who come in for safety. HOWARD.

THE INVESTIGATION.

Kellogg's Relations with Weber, Anderson and the Jenkses.

The Committee Takes a Vacation Until the 23d.

WASHINGTON, Tu'y 13.—The Potter committee met this morning.

Senator Kellogg, in reply to Mr. Springer, made certain explanations of the various statements containing figures of the votes polled in Louisiana in 1875. Nothing of interest was developed.

Q—Were you present at any consultations of the visiting statesmen while they were in New Orleans?

A—Yes sir, I met with them on several occasions.

Q—Did you ever meet with them in parlor P of St. Charles hotel?

A—Parlor P. was their rendezvous and I rarely went there without meeting some of the visiting statesmen.

In reply to further interrogations of Springer he stated that he had no knowledge of any letter or telegram having been sent from Columbus, Ohio, by Gov. Hayes to any member or members of the Returning Board during the progress of the count

He did not recollect that he ever conversed with E. L. Weber about his brother's standing firm to his protest. He wrote Mrs. Jenks but two letters, both in reference to her requests that he should use his influence towards securing either her husband or her brother a position in the New Orleans custom house. He inquired in one of these letters if she knew of anything definite regarding the "much talked of letter."

Q—Did you refer to the Sherman letter?

A—Yes sir, but I cannot now say whether I mentioned the name of Sherman,

The testimony of Mr. Jenks, to the effect that he and his wife had corresponded with Mr. Kellogg for several years, the witness called a mistake, adding that he believed their correspondence had all occurred since 1877.

In reply to Mr. Potter, Mr. Kellogg said that Mrs. Jenks did not come to Washington at his request, nor in his interest. He did not know the object of her visit. He had heard her remark that she hoped Packard would get the collectorship, but could not say that she came to assist in it. He (Kellogg) thinks that Mrs. Jenks mistakes in stating that she had frequent interview with him regarding the count during its progress. Had there been any such interviews he should have remembered them. He had no recollection whatever of any such conversation with her.

Mr. Potter then questioned the witness regarding the social and political standing of James E. Anderson, D. A. Weber, Mr. and Mrs. Jenks, and others.

The witness testified that J. E. Anderson was not considered by him to be a trustworthy Republican. He did not recollect whether or not D. A. Weber was appointed by him to the position he held in New Orleans. He knew nothing of the standing of Mrs. Jenks Always considered her husband an honorable gentleman and a good Republican.

The chairman then questioned the witness very closely whether or not he had any knowledge as Governor of Louisiana, that there had been no protest made from the parishes of East and West Feliciana.

Witness stated that the record would show, whereupon Potter repeated the question and requested a direct reply, which witness refused to give, saying:

"I know nothing about it, but if you will give me five minutes I can find it in the record."

Potter—We can find it in the record ourselves.

Witness—Well then, I cannot reply further to the question.

Witness, in reply to further questions regarding intimidation stated he had heard from various sources of the existence of Democratic intimidation on East and West Feliciana, but had no personal knowledge. Could not say whether the protest of James E. Anderson was before the Returning Board or not. Kellogg then in reply to Potter stated he had no knowledge of any applications for Federal troops having been made by the election officers in East or West Feliciana on the day of election.

Butler interrogated Kellogg, and then said, in way of question, "I understand the state of the fact to be that all members of the Visiting Commission but one had Federal offices given or tendered them, and that one was largely interested in a whiskey case which was settled. All the Returning Board and all supervisors except one (Weber who was killed) and Capt. Jenks, Mrs. Jenks and her sister or brother, all had been rewarded under the civil service order of the administration for the action in the election or other causes."

Hiscock said the question was categorical, and must be answered yes or no.

Butler then modified his question as follows: Have any of them not been appointed to Federal offices, so far as you know?

Hiscock objected to the question, on the ground that the fact must be proved by affirmative not by negative testimony.

Butler modified the question, and Kellogg answered by showing that according to his knowledge some of the commission had been appointed to Federal offices, and also that some of the supervisors whom he named had also been appointed to places.

Butler then asked—Do you know any reason or of any special qualifications of those persons why they more than any others should be appointed to office unless in connection with service in Louisiana politics?

Hiscock objected to the question, saying it was intended to make the administration appear ridiculous.

Butler said he could not render the administration more ridiculous than it had rendered itself.

In response to Mr. Butler's remark, that he could not make the administration any more ridiculous than it had made itself, Mr. Hiscock thanked Butler for the remark as showing the whole purpose of the latter's inquiry.

Mr. Potter decided that the query was proper, as there had been charges of a corrupt election and returns in Louisiana.

Witness—With the exception of J. E Anderson, all the parties named, I believe, were appointed because they were competent to discharge the duties of their respective offices, and they were men of sufficient character to justify their appointment, and have also been true, constant and working Republicans in the last campaign, and think there are more Republicans of good character who were efficient and active in the campaign who ought to be appointed to office for that very reason, if they are otherwise competent and upright.

Q—These other honest and noble men of whom you speak did not happen to be the supervisors who made the protests at the time of the election, did they?

A—They may not have done that, but they were more or less in the last election.

The witness testified as to Weber's connection with the Feliciana violence, etc His own knowledge of the Feliciana trouble was based on telegraphic information from the supervisors, and after the election he was informed by Weber that he dared not return to Feliciana.

Adjourned to Atlantic City, N. J., July 23d.

THE LOUISIANA SUB-COMMITTEE.

Testimony of Henry C. Fisk.

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—Henry C. Fisk testifies concerning his connection with the affidavits of Dix, Hobbs and Williams, that they heard Wilder say, Weber did not sign the Anderson-Weber agreements, and that Anderson did not swear to it. The witness corroborated the testimony of Hobbs and Williams, that Wilder made such statements but contradicted Williams statement, that he (Williams), did not read or authorize certain statements made in his second affidavits. The witness said the affidavit was twice read, to Williams..

Testimony of Henry Reed.

Henry Reed, colored commissioner of elections of the fourth ward of West Feliana Parish, testified regarding his affidavits before the returning board. Being shown the original, he said he had signed it and did not pay much attention to the oath, as he did not kiss the bible. Though the witness did not kiss the bible, today he said he was going to tell the truth. The witness in detail, denies most of the statements in the affidavit, saying they were not authorized, that they had been put in by the writer of the paper, and that he did not consider himself responsible.

Testimony of Charles Gecks.

Charles Gecks was sworn and testifies that E Weber stopped a few weeks ago at witness' home, and said he was going to Washington, and that he had a Sherman letter in his pocket.

AFRICA.

The Results of the Kaffir War.

LONDON, July 13.—The Cape Town Mail, in summing up the results of the war with the natives in South Africa, which has now ended, says:

Only a few small parties of the enemy remain, and it will not be long before they will be disposed of. Four of the principal chiefs have been made prisoners and three others killed, and the only man of influence at liberty is Breli. The loss of life by the insurgents is more severe than the natives have experienced in any previous outbreak, and their power as a people is utterly destroyed.

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—There were sixteen deaths from sunstroke here to-day.

ST. LOUIS, July 14.—Fully fifty cases of sunstroke to-day and about twenty deaths, including a number of cases yesterday and Friday.

THE EASTERN PROBLEM.

The Session of the Congress Ended.

The Treaty Completed and Signed.

A Summary of Its Provisions.

BERLIN, July 13.h.—The Congress held its last session today. All the plenipotentiaries and other members were present in full dress as at the opening. The proceedings commenced at half past two, and ended at four o'clock. The treaty was signed by all the plenipotentiaries alphabetically. The secretaries attended previously at one o'clock in the afternoon to affix plenipotentiary seals to each copy. After the signature, Andrassy warmly eulogized Bismarck's presidency. Bismarck thanked the plenipotentiaries for their indulgence.

The proceedings terminated with a grand court dinner this evening at White Hall Palace. Prince Frederick William congratulated the illustrations statesmen upon the realization of his hopes that the blessing of peace crowned their efforts. He declared that Germany's co-operation can be counted on for all that tends to secure and preserve this great benefit. He drank the health of the plenipotentiaries and of the soverigns of the governments, who this memorable day signed the treaty of Berlin.

The only absentees from the banquet were Beaconsfield and Gorischakoff.

The German Semi-Official Press published long peans, rejoicing and triumphing in the signature of the treaty of peace.

LONDON, July 13.—At yesterday's sitting of the congress Bismarck moved that a supplementary congress be held next autumn, either at Constantinople or Berlin. But Salisbury declared his inability to accede to any proposal interfering with the immediate submission of the papers to the English Parliament, and the motion was thrown out.

The Servians have posted strong detachments on the Drina frontier to enforce neutrality on Servia if, as apprehended, a guerilla warfare is commenced by the Bosnians and Herzegovinians against the Austrian troops.

Anglicising Cyprus.

The English government is busy with the details of military and civil establishments in Cyprus. The papers announce the appointment of a postmaster for the island and other officials for the administration of its government. General Wolsey has under consideration a scheme of a financial company for introducing railways.

Egypt Virtually in English Hands.

NEW YORK, July 13.—A Cairo letter says the whole of Egypt is in English hands, including the navy, coast guard and everything else. The Khedive might well abdicate in favor of the English protectorate, as everything is now done under under English dictation.

Synopsis of the Treaty.

BERLIN, July 13.—The Nord Deutsche Zeitung today says: "None of the diplomatists who signed the treaty believe that the work will last more than a life time. The treaty of Berlin contains fifty-seven articles. The following is a summary of the practical effect of the whole treaty, and is more intelligible than a recapitulation of the several articles seriatim would be:

The independence of Servia is recognized, but the Servian government is required to promise absolute liberty of religion to all its inhabitants, the continuation of existing treaties, and that no transit duns be exacted upon merchandise passing through its territory. Servia retains Nisch but not Novi Bazaar. The western frontier of Servia is marked by the Kopanvik defile. She receives Pirot but not Vranja.

Montenegro receives Antivari with the harbor, and an increase of territory on the north and northeast; the exact limits of which are to be defined by a commission, with the condition that the south shore of Antivari is not to be included in the grant to Montenegro, and that a strip of land twenty miles wide is to be left between the eastern line of Montenegro and the western borderyof Servia, so that the Austro-Bosnian railway may reach Salonica on Turkish territory.

Roumania's independence is proclaimed in the same terms as those applied to Servia, and the fact is insisted upon that this independence is awarded only on the condition that the government shall secure to all its subjects civil equality and religious freedom. This provision extends also to Roumelia and Bulgaria, and it is declared that the inhabitants of all these countries shall enjoy the most complete civil and religious liberty, without distinction of race or creed; that they shall be free to use the external ceremonies and indications allowed in all countries enjoying religious liberty, and that religion and race shall be no obstacle to the exercise of civil, administrative or political functions. The independence of the provinces is limited also in another direction. Their legislature shall make no change in the existing commercial regulations without the consent of the powers.

The division of Bulgaria into two provinces is provided for on the basis already generally understood. The northern province is to be known as Bulgaria, the southern as Eastern Roumelia; the line is that of the Balkan Mountains, which is to be fortified and garrisoned by the Turks; that portion of Sofia which is formed by the basin of the Iskra is to go to Bulgaria. The line passing between Zeptiman and Samakoff and Varna, on the Black Sea, is also included in Bulgaria.

The Porte is to garrison the whole frontier of Eastern Roumelia, but it is expressly understood that the soldiery thus employed shall be composed exclusively of regulars.

The election of the Prince of New Bulgaria is to be conducted, not by universal suffrage, but by duly chosen electors, and their choice must be ratified by the great powers. The number of any of the reigning dynasties or great powers of Europe is to be eligible as a candidate. A joint commission appointed by all the powers is to arrange for the provisional organizations of the new province. If the Turkish or Russian members of the commission shall disagree with a majority of their colleagues, a new conference shall be held in Constantinople, which shall decide all points of difference.

The Governor of Eastern Rumelia is to be appointed for a fixed number of years He is to be assisted by a Representative Assembly, and the Judges are to be appointed for life.

The Russian troops are to evacuate Bulgaria, and Eastern Roumelia within twelve months from the 12th of July, 1878.

The Governor of Eastern Roumelia is to be a christian appointed by the sultan. In case of war or rebellion, he is to have the right of calling upon the Turkish regulars in the garrisons upon the frontier. The interior military force of the province is to be composed of a local militia, whose officers are to be appointed by the Sultan from the predominant nationality of the district.

A commission is appointed to adjudicate the proportion of the Turkish debt which is to be assumed by the territories now made independent.

The navigation of the Danube is to be free to commercial ships of all nations. The fortifications along its banks are to be dismantled, but ships of war are not to be permitted to enter it.

The question of the rectification of the Greek frontier is handed over to Turkey and Greece for settlement between themselves. If they cannot agree they may call upon the great powers to act as arbitrators between them.

Russia receives back that portion of Bessarabia taken from her in 1856, extending from the north to the Kilia Valley. In return Roumania receives the Dobrudscha, but not Silistria.

Austria is to occupy Bosnia and Herzegovina upon such terms as she can arrange with Turkey.

Russia is permitted to take Batoum, but the district annexed to it is greatly circumscribed, and she engages to make it a free port and never to fortify it. She retains Kars and Ardahan.

Turkey retains Bayazid, with the whole valley leading thereto, including Alashgerd.

The Dardanelles are to remain closed to ships of war, but the Sultan may invite any of the great powers to send to his assistance, in case of need, a fleet of men-of-war. Persia receives the province of Khotour.

Bismarck's Closing Speech.

BERLIN, July 14.—Bismarck, in his speech at the closing of the Congress Saturday, declared that he did not hesitate to affirm that this Congress deserved well of Europe. The plenipotentiaries would have the consciousness of having as far as was possible restored and assured peace. He entertained the firm hope that the European understanding would remain durable and that the cordial relations established among the plenipotentiaries would consolidate the good relations between their governments. Bismarck incidentally remarked that his health was such he had scarcely hoped to preside over the Congress until its conclusion.

The Rhodope Insurrection.

LONDON, July 14.—Reuter's despatch from Constantinople announces that several batteries of artillery and 18 batallions have been sent to Volo. These preparations are declared to be merely a precaution against possible disturbances. The Rhodope insurgents have exhausted their ammunition and suffer from scarcity of provisions. Differences have broken out among the chiefs, some wishing to accept amnesty.

Resumption of Work in the Coal Regions.

POTTSVILLE, July 14.—There will be a general resumption of mining to-morrow, after a suspension of two weeks. Miners of this region return to work with a fair prospect of steady work for the balance of the shipping year. The prospect for steady employment at slightly advanced wages, creates a much better feeling among workingmen and improvement in business is generally looked for throughout the coal regions, by the employment of two thousand men and boys, and the various mines and railroads engaged in the trade.

Yellow Fever in Havana.

NEW YORK, July 13.—There are several cases of yellow fever at the quarantine hospital in the lower harbor from vessels arriving from Havana. The yellow fever is reported very virulent at Havana this summer as well as small-pox.

Brief Jottings.

The entertainment to be given in Kavanagh Hall Thursday evening is not a public one. Only a few invited guests will be present.

The Allan mail steamer Polynesian from Liverpool, passed Mortane Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. J. Bert Warren, foreman of the machine shops at Cumberland Mills, died last Wednesday, after a very brief illness.

Mr. Harmon, who met with such a severe accident on Friday, was quite comfortable yesterday. He is very certain that he broke his leg when he jumped to the ground.

The Cumberland Mills paper company have notified their employes of a reduction in wages to take effect the 20th of July. This is the second "cut-down" made by the company within the past three years.

Reception to Bishop Healey.

The notice that Bishop Healey was to return to Portland after his European trip drew a large crowd of people to the Boston depot Saturday noon. The Bishop, accompanied by his brother, Rev. Father Healey, President of Georgetown Jesuit College, Father Bradley, and other clergymen, arrived on the 12.30 train from Boston. He was received by the military and Sodality societies, while the band played an air of welcome. The procession then re-formed in the following order:

Cole's Band.
Captain D. C. O'Donoghue on horseback.
Montgomery Guards—Lieut. McCullum, 35 men.
Carriages with the Rt. Rev. Bishop and Clergy.
Sodality Society of the Cathedral, 150 men.
Sodality Society of St. Dominick's, 50 men.

The march was then taken through Commercial, Park, York and State streets to St. Dominick's church. In front of the church the procession halted, while the children of St. Dominick's, stationed on the steps of the church, sang a hymn of welcome.

The procession then marched through State, Spring, High and Free streets to St. Elizabeth Academy. Here the procession again halted. The young ladies of the convent, dressed in white, sang "Laudate Dominum." At this place the Bishop was the recipient of some splendid floral offerings, the gift of the wife of the Rev. Mr. Gibbs.

The march was then resumed through Free to Brown and Congress streets to the Bishop's residence. Here the school children of Kavanagh were drawn up; and while the procession halted sang "Joy, joy, welcome to-day," and "Home, sweet home."

In the evening a number of prominent Catholic gentlemen, accompanied by Cole's Band, marched to the Bishop's residence and tendered him a serenade. The grounds about the residence were brilliantly illuminated with Chinese lanterns and there was a large crowd of people present. At 7.45 the Bishop appeared upon the front steps, accompanied by Rev. Fathers Bradley and Ryan, and said:

I have neither heart nor words to express my thanks for the cordial welcome extended to me to-day. Did I receive this ovation as to myself I should feel very much flattered, but I consider it as a mark of attachment to the office which I hold. After my travels through various countries I feel better satisfied with my home than ever; and I assure you that I have never for an hour forgotten Portland. Again I thank you for your kind greeting, and will pray to God every day of my life for your continued prosperity. And now I will bid you an affectionate good night.

The remarks of the Bishop were received with much applause. The band played a few more selections and the crowd dispersed to their homes.

Excursion of the Portland Encampment.

The Portland Encampment are arranging for a fine excursion to Bridgton to-morrow. They will be accompanied by Chandler's Band and leave their hall at 12.15 sharp and take the Ogdensburg train at 12.45. They take the steamer Bridgton at Sebago Lake and will arrive at Bridgton at 5 p. m. The Bridgton Encampment, with the Bridgton Brass Band, will meet them near the residence of George Taylor, Esq., and escort them through the principal streets to their quarters at the Cumberland House. At 7 o'clock Chandler's Band will give an open air concert, and in the evening, commencing at 8 o'clock, a dance in the pavilion which has been erected in Highland Grove, the scene of the Knights of Pythias assembly last year. Chandler's Quadrille Band will furnish the music, and it is expected that the pavilion will be lighted with a calcium light. The next forenoon (Wednesday) the visiting brethren will be shown about the place, through the mills, taken to drives through the suburbs etc., and their stay made as agreeable as possible. They return on the noon steamer.

Temperance Rally at White Head.

The District Temperance Committee are arranging for a grand rally at White Head, Cushing's Island, on the 25th inst. They have arranged for speaking, both forenoon and afternoon. Among the speakers engaged are Gov. Connor, ex-Govs. Morrill and Perham and Rev. W. E. Gibbs. Excellent music will be furnished by Chandler's and the Lewiston band. The lookout will be formally dedicated at 1.30 p. m. There is also to be a game of base ball between the old Resolutes and the Portland Reds. Excursion trains will be run on all the roads centering here. The Peakes' Island company will run boats every half hour.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Yesterday Mrs. Elizabeth Hildreth of Rockland, who was visiting her friends in this city attended church at Free street church. During the service she did not feel very well and on returning to the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Benjamin F. Sweet, No. 21 Hanover street, she sank into a chair and died in a few moments. She was upwards of 80 years of age and was remarkably smart for her age. She was the mother of Mrs. Capt How.

SLIGHT ACCIDENT ON THE ROCHESTER.—Saturday night, as the 11 o'clock train over the Portland & Rochester was on its way to the Grand Trunk depot after leaving its passengers at Preble street, the engine ran on a side track owing to a misplaced switch near the bridge and ran into several box cars. The front of the engine was considerably damaged by the collision, but no further damage was done. Who opened the switch is not known.

A Delightful Excursion.

The much talked of excursion to the mouth of the Kennebec river on the steamer Forest City came off Saturday under the most favorable auspices. Owing to the dull aspect of the early morning many who had decided to go were deterred from so doing. There were however between 500 and 600 on board of the steamer when she slowly moved from Franklin wharf dock soon after 10 o'clock. The party was an exceptionally fine one, there being no disturbing element on board that was visible. On the water the sun was warm and bright, and a fresh sea breeze made the atmosphere delightful.

Capt. Donovan in his usual obliging manner consulted the passengers as to which route to take down through the harbor and then chose the course which would please the greatest number. His selection was a wise one as all on board were free to admit. The steamer ran down between Peakes' and Hog Islands, crossed Broad sound, sailed the whole length of Long Island and then passed around the lower end and out by Great Chebeague. She passed Long, Eagle and Ministerial islands and went out through Mark Island passage running very near the monument which is used to direct ships to Harpswell harbor. From here Half Way Rock light could be seen plainly. A short distance from Mark Island brought the steamer out into the open ocean without a single spot of land to break the force of the waves which were too high for the comfort for some on board. A porgy steamer was seen rolling in a very industrious manner and the very sight of her drove many of the excursionists below. The course lay straight for Cape Small Point and when this was reached there was a lull in the waves and many of the ladies who had gone below reappeared. From Cape Small Point the steamer sailed to Seguin which was reached about the time that the gong announced dinner ready on the lower deck. Those who were not provided with picnic baskets, and had an appetite went below and feasted on spring lamb and green peas. Rounding Seguin light the steamer directed her course up the broad channel of the Kennebec passing Pond Island light, Fort Popham, Parker's head and going nearly to Phippsburg where a large vessel was seen on the stocks. The steamer turned about after going about five miles up the river, and once more pointed her bow towards the ocean. At Parker's head the excursionists were shown the long slender looking sluice ways used to slide ice from the pond up in the mountain where it is cut down to vessels in the river. All the great quantities of ice which comes from Parker's head comes over these sluice ways. Repassing Seguin again the steamer steered straight for Half Way Rock keeping outside of all the Islands, although several of them could be seen quite plainly. Salutes were exchanged at Half Way Rock and the steamer then steamed for Portland Head, rounding Cushing's and Ram Island, and coming up the ship channel. On the return trip the water was very smooth all the way, and there was but little sickness noticeable. The sail up the harbor was made at about half speed and was one of the best features of the whole trip. The wharf was reached at about 4.20 o'clock and even those who were sick must have rejoiced that they went, so delightful was the trip taken as a whole. To those who were not affected by the action of the wind waves the trip was as charming as could be imagined.

It is hoped that the company will continue these excursions, and the next time they will probably go further up the river.

Suicide of Eben M. Plummer.

Saturday evening about 6 o'clock as Mr. Berry Meda was crossing Rocky Hill woods near Morrill's Corner he discovered a bloody coat and a gun which very naturally greatly alarmed him. Calling Mr. William Leighton the two began to search for the cause of the mysterious looking articles, and they soon discovered a man lying on the ground with his head and face so horribly disfigured that it was some time before they ascertained who it was. Careful examination revealed the fact that it was Mr. Eben M. Plummer who resided near Morrill's Corner, and there was no doubt but what he had made an attempt to take his life. The gun found near him was double barreled and there had been two shots fired in his right ear, the charges passing out through his left temple. He was taken to his home at once in an unconscious condition and Dr. Greene was sent for. He was however beyond the aid of medical skill and died in a few hours. His face was terribly mutilated by the shot.

Mr. Plummer has been depressed in spirits of late and has often spoke of feeling very blue. He was about 38 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

BOATING NOTES.—The Loring and Union crews are to have a three mile race in the harbor on the 24th inst.

The Union Rowing Association are to have an excursion to Sebago in August, on which occasion they intend to give as high as $400 for a four-oared shell race, and also large purses for singles, pairs and doubles. Hanlon, Faulkner, Reagan, Frenchy Johnson, Morris, Plaisted, Kennedy and others are expected to participate.

Evans Morris of Pittsburg, is to be the fourth man in the "big team," which will be made up as follows: M. F. Davis, bow; F. A. Plaisted, No. 2; E. Morris, No. 3; J. A. Kennedy, stroke. They have commenced training

Personal.

Samuel Dingley, Esq. has been appointed local mail agent for this city.

J. Edwin Sherman, Esq of Boston, has recently given $100 for the purchase of books for Colby University library.

Among those who received diplomas at the recent commencement of the Milwaukee Female College, we notice the name of Miss Abbie May Bunker of North Anson, Maine, who graduated at the head of her class. Miss Bunker is a daughter of Samuel Bunker, Esq. of North Anson village.

BASE BALL.—The manager of the Atlantics would inform the Biddeford Reds that there is no need of their sending to the New York Mercury to inquire why the Atlantics did not visit Biddeford on Saturday, the 6th. The Atlantics did not go for the reason that they are not playing ball this season to lose, but to earn a dollar.

The Biddeford Reds seem to think that the Portland Reds are afraid to play them. If they think so, let them guarantee the Portland club $15, and they will visit their city.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—The auction sale of real estate belonging to the city on St. John street Saturday disposed of a number of lots at very low rates. The sale was postponed until next Saturday. W. E. Watson paid three cents a foot for one lot, Chas. N. Delano 2⅞ cents for one lot and 3⅞ cents for another. Edward Harlow and Mrs. A. Ricker each bought lots for four cents a foot.

DEATH OF A PORTLAND MAN.—Saturday morning Mr. F. M. Cobb, an engineer on the Grand Trunk, received news that his son Fred. had died suddenly at Port Jervis. He was an engineer on the New York & Erie road and was about 28 years of age. He formerly ran with his father on the Grand Trunk road and was well known among railroad men in this vicinity. He leaves a wife.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The Temperance Union held a very enthusiastic and successful meeting in Congress Hall last evening. Earnest and effective speeches were made by Capt. J. B. Coyle, H. Towle, W. J. Corthell of Calais, State Superintendent of Education, and G. A. Merry. Seven signatures were obtained to the pledge.

CHEAP EXCURSION.—The auction land sales at Old Orchard, Tuesday and Wednesday, and thirty-five cents for the round trip from Portland, will give such a chance to visit that beach as seldom occurs, and we doubt not each train for both ways will be full.

THE DEATH RATE.—The whole number of deaths in this city the past week was 13, from the following causes: Consumption 3, disease of brain 2, disease of kidneys 1, bronchitis 1, whooping cough 1, unknown 1, still born 4.

Gorham.

Quite a large number of friends of Mrs. Ivory Harmon assembled at her new hotel Friday evening, in order to partake of a fine collation and declare the house fairly open to the public. Soon after arriving the guests were seated at a supper that would satisfy the daintiest of palates and at the close were in a much better condition to listen to the singing and engage in the various other kinds of amusements. After examining the house in all its three stories and twenty-five large and well ventilated rooms, at a late hour the company departed, wishing Mrs. Harmon success in her new enterprise. Already she has a number of summer boarders and rooms engaged for more.

Immorality.

MR EDITOR:—As it has been publicly announced that "the man who buys and reads a newspaper on Sunday is an immoral man," and being one of that class myself, I ask that you give space to these few lines regarding the subject.

Which is the greater sin, to purchase and read a newspaper on Sunday, the work on it being nearly all done during the secular days of the week, or to purchase and read Monday morning, a newspaper on which nearly all the work is done during the Sabbath? And does any Christian man or minister hesitate for one moment to read his Monday morning paper from fear of being immoral? I think not.

A poor mechanic who is obliged to work or starve during the working days, hails with joy the pleasant sunshine of a summer Sabbath, and with the hoarded savings of a week—perhaps two weeks, perhaps a month even—he can take his invalid wife out into God's green fields, away from the hot, dusty city streets to where the pure country air refreshes and renovates the whole system, and while they look up into the blue sky and watch the fleecy clouds sail along, their hearts swell with—what if not thanks to the Giver of all good? And yet it is claimed that this man and woman are immoral and are performing immoral acts, while they are striving to benefit bodily health and every thought is full of praise to God for the opportunity. To be sure they do not fall upon their knees and tell God that He made the earth, and the land, and the sea, and "all that in them is," but they do as surely thank God in their souls, as ever a prayer was uttered.

Perhaps some one would suggest that they should attend church instead of doing this, but they cannot afford to do so; they have a certain degree of pride which will not permit them to be looked upon as unsuitably dressed for public worship, and being unable financially to shield themselves from a suspicion of ridicule they prefer to absent themselves entirely.

A certain class are compelled to break the Sabbath, if newspaper reading be taken as a criterion; the wealthy man who keeps his carriage berates his hostler because on Sunday morning the hair on his span does not lay sleek enough, or the silver on the harnesses does not have the usual polish,—the man must do it on Sunday or lose his place; and even Bridget is debarred from having her "Sunday out" that the master may have a roast beef dinner after preaching his morning sermon.

Now some may say I am ridiculous, but if I am, try and convince yourself that there are such things as ridiculous facts.

An Indian brought before the Puritanic Governor of Plymouth, was punished for shooting a deer on the Sabbath, but as the deer was very fat and nice, it was allowed to be served up with caper sauce for the Governor's table.

A silent thanksgiving to God from the heart is worth more, I believe, than a prayer a half hour long. G. R. W.

THE large stock of fine pictures now on exhibition at F. O. Bailey & Co.'s deserve careful attention. They will all be sold at auction tomorrow. Then look out for bargains.

STATE NEWS.

KENNEBEC COUNTY.

On Monday afternoon last Frank Chadburne of North Berwick, an inmate of the Insane Hospital, escaped from the park grounds, where he had been taken with other patients, and succeeded in evading capture. Diligent and continued search was made, but no trace of him was discovered till Thursday afternoon, when the body of a man was found in the Chelsea boom, opposite Hallowell. On notification of the fact, the officers of the hospital proceeded to the place, and indentified the body found as that of Mr. Chadborne. The body was so changed that indentification was possible only by his clothing, which was marked. Coroner Wm. H. Libby was called, and viewed the body, and after ascertaining all the facts, and finding no marks of violence or evidence of foul play, deemed an inquest unnecessary. The remains were taken to the hospital receiving tomb, where they await the directions of his friends.

The Democratic county convention will be held in Augusta, August 15th, and the Congressional convention at the same time and place.

AGRICULTURAL.

Dairy Notes.

In accordance with an announcement made in our columns several weeks since, Professor L. B. Arnold commended a series of lectures on subjects connected with the dairy, addressed to the dairymen of Crawford County, Penn., who were requested to ask such questions as might be suggested by the subjects under discussion. We give a few extracts from this address, and a few of the replies to questions answered, as reported in The Dairyman. Prof. Arnold commenced by stating that, although some cheesemakers preferred to follow the ruts already worn, yet he hoped he might be able to interest lovers of progress in some new ideas that would tend to work an innovation in the art of cheese-making. It is necessity which drives men out of old ruts into new modes of thoughts and practice. This is particularly so of cheese-making. Prices of dairy products have fallen so low that it is barely possible for dairymen to keep up; hence they strive to lessen the cost of production and manufacture.

The first step in this direction is to provide good cows. Prof. Stewart estimates that it takes two-thirds of what a cow eats to sustain her life. Prof. Arnold continued by saying that he estimated this at four-fifths. There is, then, but one-third to one fifth of the cows food which goes to milk. Two-thirds of the cows in the United States do not make their owners a cent of profit; hence there is a great necessity for keeping better cows. Probably dairymen lose more from scant feeding than from any other source, if we except poor cows. As regards reducing cost of manufacture, it has been already reduced about as low as it can be without shutting up the factories altogether, which would result in a retrograde movement to the old methods.

We need to increase the value of the product; we are apt to think that if a cheese will sell that is all we want. This is a mistake, to illustrate which Prof. Arnold gave an account of some experiments recently made by him. He compared full-cream cheese, newly made, and a sample made last September, with samples of foreign cheese; also some Holland, some English, Cheddar and some French Rocquefort cheese. He took some pepsin and hydrochloric acid, imitating as nearly as possible, artificially, the gastric or stomachic juices and their digestive properties. He found the Roquefort cheese, two years old, containing about twenty per cent. of moisture, digested in 1½ hours; Dutch (Edam) in two hours; a third variety in 2½ hours; a fourth in 2¾ hours; but the sample of our own make, nine months old containing forty per cent. of moisture, required four hours for digestion, and even then by far the greater portion was left undigested. Experiments in relation to solidity gave about the same results. In every case American cheese took more time, and left far more sediment, than the foreign makes.

To make good cheese the milk must be pure. No good cheese was ever made of impure or diseased milk. The rennet and the salt must be pure. It is rennet that makes the cheese and digests it; it coagulates the milk into a solid form, and by continuing its action reduces it again to a soluble form—very simply, the gastric juice. The effect of whey in cheese-making is to form an acid which obscures or overcomes taint, but at the same time whey contains within itself nearly all the taints and impurities of the milk. It has also another effect, to carry an excess of moisture into the cheese, also by the production of acid to neutralize the active force of rennet in the cure.

It is not enough that the rennet has coagulated the milk; its action must continue throughout the curing and maturing process, or we have a poor, indigestible cheese. Acid kills its action in the process of making and early curing, and is therefore objectionable. The little particles of hard, uncured curd in acid cheese are evidences of the toughening effects of the acid. The rennet property in those particles being entirely destroyed they refuse to break down, and such cheese will never be fit for food because indigestible, nor palatable because the fine flavor has been neutralized by the acid action. The samples of foreign cheese mentioned above were laxative in their tendencies, while American cheese is constipating. The former may be eaten freely as you would eat bread, and you feel no oppression. Not so the cheese we are making. The best of our factory cheese you cannot eat as other food, because it is so constipating. When properly made cheese is as nutritive as beef and even more so, yet no constipating food can be healthful, and a person cannot eat much of it.

We must make cheese and not use so much acid. Prof. Arnold says his way is to heat the milk to blood heat before applying the rennet, then there is no after-heating to do, only to keep the heat up to the blood heat point, so that the digestive process shall go forward naturally. Curd does not ferment, the whey ferments and the curd feels its influence, and re-acts upon the whey. When a curd is fit to dip it has a stale smell. The effect of this stale condition is to promote decay.

Radical changes, suddenly made are not advised. Begin with the thorough ventilation of the milk at the dairy. A common fault is the formation of a taint from lack of proper ventilaton. If milk is well ventilated you may carry it two or three miles, and its condition for cheesemaking will be improved thereby. It will make better cheese for this agitation. The whey should be drawn off as soon as the heat is applied. The curd will then become stringy and respond to the hot-iron test even before the acid forms. In drawing off the whey let the curd pack at the sides of the vat, the whey passing off down the middle between the curd; turn over, and when drained quite dry it will respond to the hot iron. Break it up or put it through a curd mill, putting it to press, salting a little less than by the common method.

In answering to numerous interrogatives, Prof. Arnold answered as fellows, accounting for the disconnected matter given. Good cheese cannot be produced from tainted milk although the taint can be destroyed by heating the milk to 140 degrees. The samples of foreign cheese showed fifteen to thirty per cent. water, while much of the American cheese contains thirty to fifty. Our cheese is made to sell and not to keep; if we want them to keep we must cook them dryer; if we want them to cure very fast we will allow them to retain more moisture. The best food for milch cows, available to all, is sowed corn; millet is also excellent, and every farmer should have a crop of corn and millet for green feeding. Corn being a juicy plant should be wilted a day or two before feeding, to get rid of the superfluous water. Peas and oats grown together are excellent, and will always pay for growing when grass is short and dry. Wheat bran is very valuable food for this purpose; it should not be fed dry, but should be wet and mingled with coarse food before feeding. Sowed corn is best for feeding just while it is in blossom.

American Agricultural Machinery.

The Paris Exhibition affords an excellent opportunity for American manufacturers of agricultural machinery to exhibit their wares, in comparison with the mechanical productions of other nations. It appears that although this branch of business has largely increased in France of late years, the imports of the same, two-thirds of which are from England and Switzerland, exceed 3400 tons, of a value exceeding 4,000,000 francs. With respect to reapers and mowers, the total of both in 1862 was under 1800 in the whole country. In 1867 the reapers numbered 2883, and the mowers 3161, and they have increased so fast since that the French makers have not been able to keep out English and American implements. In the production of small threshing-machines the French manufacturers are said to excel. The number of threshing-machines of all kinds in 1856 was officially stated at 51,000; in 1862 it was nearly doubled, and in 1873 it had risen to 134,000, of which nearly 7000 were worked by steam. Here is a great field for American enterprise. The English and Germans are already liberal purchasers of American agricultural tools and machinery.

Ventilation for Apartments.

An English plan for ventilating rooms is mentioned with approval by the Plumber and Sanitary Engineer. It consists in admitting air from the outside, at the floor level, to pipes on the inside, which are about 6 feet high. The air thus admitted is passed over or through water, which can be renewed at intervals, through the pipe, or flushed when the water receptacle needs cleaning. The air passing through the pipe, ascends in the room, mixes with the warm air near the ceiling, and eventually permeates the apartments. Something like this, so far as the admission of air is concerned, has been achieved in this country, by short pipes bent at a right angle, to be set in the opening of a window, and also yet more cheaply, by the separation of the sashes in the middle at their ordinary point of juncture. But the difference between the outside and inside temperature of dwelling houses is much greater here than in England, and contrivances of the kind above described have generally a short-lived popularity in this country, because they soon cool apartments below the range of comfort in cold weather.

Oil for Pear Blight.

Mr. D. P. Wescott, Rochester, N. Y., is reported in Rural Home as having tried linseed oil repeatedly for the last four years on pear trees affected with blight, and with such uniform success that he is thoroughly convinced that it is a remedy. But he does not simply pour on the oil or wash the trees with it, but takes a paint brush and thoroughly works the oil into the pores of the bark, believing that it is the closing of the pores, arresting the circulation, that causes the blight. He had but one tree attacked last year, and the prompt and vigorous applications of the oil cured it.
